

Journey to School (Start-Up Geography)

An introduction to key travel and location words, inviting children to explore photographs, maps, and plans to investigate their own journeys to school. This title looks at the different forms of transportation children and their parents use to travel from home to school. Using photographs, a plan, simple maps, and examples of pupils work, children investigate their own journey to school, types of transport, and what features they pass on the way. It explains the need for addresses for the purposes of traveling and receiving mail, and also outlines other children's daily journeys for readers to relate to.
