Not illustrated. 1887 Excerpt: ... Those vessels were built of spruce and cheap qualities of hard wood, and were got up in every way cheap as to material. Those vessels were fitted out and manned. Of course their men went on the lay the same as ours, but they were fitted out cheaper. The iron, manila, and such stuff that went into the construction made their vessels cheaper. Then began the labor of curing fish. They hire their labor very cheap; our labor is costly, while theirs is of almost nominal value. The whole business is expensive with us compared with what it is with them. Our local taxation, as well as national, is high, and it has all got to come out of the proceeds of the business somewhere. FREE FISH. Q. Is it possible for Canada to give the fishermen of this country anything that you would regard as an equivalent for allowing her fish to come in here free of duty?--A. I cant see where there is anything. Q. You do not know of anything you want?--A. I do not. All I should ask, as a vessel-owner, would be civilized treatment of our vessels, to have the same rights and privileges accorded to us that all civilized nations accord to each other, and indeed you might now say all the nations. SALT AND FRESH FISH. Q. As a matter of fact, has not the immense increase in the consumption and sale of fresh fish injured the market for salt fish?--A. I think it has to some extent. Q. Is not that fresh fish consumption increasing very rapidly?--A. I think it is increasing very fast; it is going to be a large business in the future. I think the fisheries in future will be the great business. FROZEN FISH. Q. As you understand, the fresh fish come in free and are frozen?--A. Yes, sir. Q. Do you want duty on fresh fish as well as salt?--A. I should think it would be very desirable. When a large qua...
